On 11th March, 2026, a team of volunteers of the Centre for Clinical Legal Education and Legal Aid Cell (CCLELAC) performed a skit on the theme of prevention of sexual harassment against women at workplace. The skit was organized in collaboration with the Centre for Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS). It was a part of the series of events organized by the CHSS celebrating the International Women's Day and Women's History month. The venue of the performance was the Circle of Life, Academic Block, NLUJAA.

The volunteers showed their skills extremely well and displayed how sexual harassment against women at workplace affect their dignity and liberty, and how significant it is to prevent and punish such practices. The lively performance conveyed the message that women are equally entitled to basic liberties and safe workspace, and men must stop sexually harassing women in any manner. It amounts an offence punishable by law.

The skit was highly appreciated by the students and the faculty-members.
